LEGISLATORS STUDY RED "EXPOSE"

Committee On Un-American Activities To Consider Making Testimony Public

LOS ANGELES, (UP)—A state legislative committee investigating un-American activities decides today whether to make public in full the testimony of Capt. Charles G. Baksey, a private investigator. He named "so many widely known persons" that his testimony was censored, pending an inquiry.

Richard Combs, general counsel for the committee, said Baksey convinced the committee in executive session that his "information was authentic."

"It will be censored pending a careful inquiry in accordance with the committee's pledge to the public not to smear anyone or bandy names about," Combs said.

Baksey said he had investigated communists and other radicals for the department of justice, the navy and other federal agencies since 1916 as a private agent.

He testified he became a "fellow traveler" of the communist party and paid $5,000 to establish a complete communist library at his home in Palo Alto.

Many of Baksey's statements duplicated his testimony at the first deportation trial of labor leader Harry Bridges in San Francisco in August, 1939. At that hearing Dean James M. Landis, trial examiner, described Baksey's testimony as "bizarre and at times fantastic" and said it was "impossible to separate truth from fiction."

A. H. Webber, Hollywood studio employee, told the state legislative committee of blacklisting methods he asserted were employed by the radio, electrical and machine workers.

Private funeral services are to be held on Friday at Sacramento for Mrs. Sarah Jane Duden, 85, a native of El Dorado County and a former resident at Latrobe and at El Dorado where her husband, the late Clarence E. Duden, was station agent for the railroad.

Mrs. Duden passed away on Wednesday.

She was a sister-in-law of Mrs. Mattie E. Dugan, of this city, and was the aunt of John and Charles Dugan, Hazel Blair and Ethel Boom, and the great-aunt of City Clerk Harold W. Duden.

Her father, the late William Dugan, was a 49er in Sacramento and later settled in the Latrobe district where he operated a hotel.

Mrs. Duden is survived by one son, Eugene, of Sacramento.

"KEN" WARD WINS TRANSFER TO NAVAL AIR SCHOOL AT PENSACOLA

Kenneth Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward, of Placerville, has qualified for admission as a prospective pilot to the Naval Air School at Pensacola, Florida, where he is to report on August 19th.

This is according to word received by his parents who report Kenneth is now enroute from Hawaii to San Francisco and that the boat on which he is traveling is due within the next few days at San Francisco.

Whether Kenneth's schedule will permit of a short visit at home before reporting at Pensacola was not known.

Kenneth has been stationed in Hawaii in the Navy and his qualification for the Naval Air school is a result of special interest and preparation in addition to his regular duties.

Death Of Fred R. Nugent June 24 In Hawaii Recalls Early Local History

In connection with the report of the death June 24 in Hawaii of Fred Rockwell Nugent, which was reported in these columns last week, we have received additional information concerning the circumstances.

Mr. Nugent passed away on the above date suddenly and of a heart attack, and was laid at rest on June 26th following services under the auspices of Hawaiian Lodge No. 21, F. & A. M., and Theodore Roosevelt Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, concluding with the rites of the Episcopal church.

In addition to membership in the Masonic order and in the veterans' organization, Mr. Nugent also was a member of The Sons of the American Revolution.

Native of Placerville, born October 26th, 1873, Mr. Nugent was the only son of the late T. C. and Juliet Rockwell Nugent. The family moved to Berkeley in 1887 and Mr. Nugent resided there until the Spanish American War when he served in the Hospital Corps. He returned to Berkeley after the war and then went to Honolulu where he was dispenser with the Honolulu Board of Health for fourteen years and then, for a quarter century, dispenser of the Leahi Home, a hospital, retiring in May of 1940.

Mr. Nugent is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nanita Sturtevant Nugent, one sister, Mrs. Evelyn N. Conant, and a nephew, Roger N. Conant, of Berkeley.

FRUIT HARVEST WORK BEGINS

Early Season Outlook For Returns On Pear Crop Is Encouraging

El Dorado County's harvest of fruit began during the week and the first car load of pears of the season left Thursday morning, shipped by the Lambert Marketing Company and consigned to, it was reported, Atlanta.

The car, by the way, carried boxes for which lids were supplied by the El Dorado Veneer Products Company.

The general outlook for pear crop returns is reported by leaders in the industry as good, with canner purchase exerting a healthy influence. Some of the prices in eastern markets on some grades have not been as strong as would be desired, but it is believed the high quality of the crop will improve this condition.

While some of the most conservative of the fruit men confess that the present outlook is better than it has been for several years, others declare that the 1941 prospects are the best since 1934.

Three of Placerville's fruit packing plants began operation this week. The Pacific Fruit Exchange started work Monday, under the supervision of Calvin Scott, who has been the company's representative in this field since last October.

Mr. Scott indicated that the plant would start slowly and would be in operation late into the season handling a steady flow of fruit.

The Lambert Marketing Company, with Joe Caligiuri as district manager, swung into operation Tuesday and, as noted above, led off the season with its first car on Thursday.

Nazi Rumor Leningrad Fall Near; British Join In Arctic Air Attack

By UNITED PRESS

The first direct British offensive action to aid Russia was revealed today.

It was a heavy attack by British naval planes upon the northern Finnish port of Petsamo and the Arctic Norway Port of Kirkenes. The British reported that the Nazi warship Bremse, 1460 tons, was hit at Kirkenes and four supply ships hit at Petsamo. The raid was large scale and costly, the British admitting a loss of 10 planes.

German accounts placed British losses at 28 planes and said Russian aircraft cooperated in the attack. Both attacked ports are not far from the important Soviet port of Murmansk, chief Arctic port of entry for Russian supplies.

Hopkins, U. S. lease-lend administrator, conferred with Stalin and other high Russian officials yesterday and scheduled new meetings for today. He was told by Stalin that Russia would see to it that American confidence in her fight against Adolf Hitler is not misplaced.

Russian battle accounts continued their optimistic tone as the war went into its 40th day.

Soviet troops were said to be holding off German forces in heavy fighting on the Smolensk, Novorzhnev, Nevel and Zhitomir fronts. The "great Germany" regiment, a picked detachment of 2000 Nazi fighters, was said to have been wiped out in the Smolensk sector. New Russian air raids were reported on the Ploesti oil fields and the Russian oil port of Sulina.

The Russians were said to have (Continued on Page Three)

M. H. Vaught Resigns As Advertising Manager Effective August 1st

The Mountain Democrat and The Placerville Republican announce with regret the resignation of Mance H. Vaught as advertising manager for the two publications.

Mr. Vaught's resignation is effective August 1 and he will leave Placerville about August 10 to undertake a two-year assignment as a missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

He has been assigned to the California Mission of the L. D. S. church, which embraces Nevada, Arizona and California, and the specific field of his work within that area will be reported to him at the mission headquarters at Los Angeles, where he is to report on August 11.

Mr. Vaught has been a member of the L. D. S. Church in Placerville for two years past and during the past eighteen months has served as superintendent of the Sunday School for the church. Following two weeks of preparation at Salt Lake City, his mission call began on July 9, although he was granted a leave to permit him to conclude personal affairs, until August 11.

Mr. Vaught has been connected with Placerville newspapers since 1924, his work as advertising manager of The Republican dating from that time. When, in 1935, The Republican was taken over by The Mountain Democrat, Mr. Vaught became advertising manager for both papers.

A veteran of the World War, he served eighteen months overseas as a member of the 308th Supply Company, Quartermasters Corps, with the rank of sergeant. He is a member and past commander of El Dorado Post No. 119, American Legion.

During Mr. Vaught's absence in the mission field, Mrs. Vaught will continue her residence in Placerville. Their home in Bungalow Terrace has been leased.

Legion, and formerly was a member of the Placerville Lions club.

Although Mr. Vaught's active affiliation with the L.D.S. Church is of comparatively recent date, his interest in the church work is of long standing, his maternal grandmother being listed among the pioneers of Utah who emigrated from Sweden and crossed the plains by handcart in 1847.

During Mr. Vaught's absence in the mission field, Mrs. Vaught will continue her residence in Placerville. Their home in Bungalow Terrace has been leased.

Army To Build Four Target Battleships

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The army is planning the construction of four "target battleships" costing $1,000,000 each to improve the marksmanship of four engine bombers operating in the sub-stratosphere, it was learned today.

The ships will be designed to simulate a super-dreadnaught in action and will carry crews of 30 to 40 men, officials said. They will be 175 feet long and will be able to cruise at sea for weeks at a time.

Marksmanship of the 26 ton bombers at altitudes of 30,000 to 40,000 feet has become increasingly important to military authorities as a part of the program to strengthen U. S. defense outposts in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Odds 1 To 3 Nazis Lose This Year

Little Known Facts About Ice Cream

CALORIES IN POPULAR DESSERTS

MANY people are not aware that most popular desserts are much higher in calories than ice cream.

According to figures recently compiled by the National Dairy Council, an average serving of vanilla ice cream, measuring approximately one sixth of a quart, provides 200 calories. Compare this with 450 calories for a piece of lemon pie or 350 for a serving of angel food cake.

Another mistaken idea about ice cream is that it is "full of air." Air is a necessary ingredient in ice cream, as without it a solid frozen mass would result. Ice cream that did not have air beaten into it would be like bread that had not risen. The principle is similar to that followed in the kitchen when air is beaten into eggs, whipping cream, or batters.

The combination of lobster or other fish and ice cream in a meal is still believed by many to be a cause of indigestion. Scientists have disproved this old belief, stating that if the fish is fresh no harm can result from the combination. Fish is often combined with milk in tasty sea food dishes. Ice cream, a milk product, can be served in the same meal with equal success.

Ice cream is a healthful food containing most of the nutritive elements of milk—proteins, minerals, and vitamins. Cream, milk and milk concentrates, sugar, and sometimes eggs, form the basis of all ice cream. The typical proportion of ingredients is about 80% cream and milk products, 15% sugar, 4.5% flavor, 0.5% stabilizer (usually gelatine).

About 4 1/2 billion pounds of milk are used each year to supply the cream and other dairy products used in the twelve hundred million quarts of ice cream which Americans eat annually.

OIL DRUM PRIORITY IS RECOMMENDED BY COORDINATOR

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Defense Oil Coordinator Harold L. Ickes has recommended that the office of production management grant priority on the manufacture of 10,000 steel drums in which aviation gasoline and other oil may be shipped to Russia, it was announced today.

Deputy oil coordinator, Ralph K. Davies, announcing the action, said that arrangements are being made for tanker service from the Pacific Coast to Russian ports "as it may be required."

Davies said that priorities on more drums would be recommended when the need develops.

Thrill Surprises Official

KANSAS CITY, Mo., (UP)—Ray W. Wilson, assistant to the city manager, decided Kansas City's expense of $14,000 a year to collect $26,000 in dog taxes was too high so he wrote other municipalities asking information on their expenses. Now he is telling officials in other cities how Kansas City manages a profit from the dog tax, for it seems that in most cities that department operates at a loss.

CHIC CHECKS

Silk print afternoon dress.

By Vera Winston

THE checked motif is of prime importance this year. Checks are smartly handled, worked into designs and patterns rather than used as all-over materials. Here's an example in this new silk print for afternoon wear. The white silk ground is printed in bows done in blue and white checks. The ruffled shawl collar frames the neck in soft fluttering folds. The navy patent belt is wide in front and has a button closing.

No suitable substitute for cork for bottle caps and stoppers is in production, according to the Department of Commerce.

Robin Godine, rich society girl, falls in love with Cary Craig, who is paying his way through medical school by working for an escort bureau. She hires him to go about with her. He secretly loves her but, because of her wealth, hides his feelings. Finally, deciding it is best to end things between them, he deliberately provokes a bitter quarrel. After this, he becomes so morose that his foster father, Jed Prosser, a beer-parlor proprietor, is worried about him. But Lyriss Moline, singer in the beer parlor who is in love with Cary, is delighted that he has quarreled with Robin, and thinks up a scheme whereby she hopes to ensnare him. She plans a "mock" wedding at the beer parlor, supposedly to help business. She is to be the bride, and she induces Cary to act as the groom. Then, she secretly arranges to turn it into a real wedding. On the evening of the event, Robin and a group of her friends unexpectedly appear at the beer parlor just as the ceremony is about to start.

CHAPTER XIX

LYRIS lifted her head proudly, took Jed's arm, and started slowly down the improvised aisle. She heard the crowd's intake of breath—a tribute to her beauty. As she passed Robin, she had a glimpse of the girl's face. It was working convulsively. Now she had reached the minister. Jed had stepped back, and Cary was at her side. The minister was solemnly speaking the words of the wedding service. . . . On and on it went. The hush in the room deepened. . . . "Do you, Cary Craig, take this woman, Lyriss Moline. . . . Suddenly, a shrill cry cut into the words, Lyriss went cold. She jerked her head around. Robin had pushed through the crowd and was running down the aisle. "Don't Cary!" she was shrieking. "Don't say it! Please don't say it!" She reached Cary's side and seized his arm.

FOR a moment, there was astounded inaction. Then, followed turmoil.

Lyriss, infuriated by this halt to her plans when they were so near completion, suddenly slapped Robin hard, sending her reeling backward into Jed Prosser's arms. Robin had pushed through the crowd and was running down the aisle. "Don't Cary!" she was shrieking. "Don't say it! Please don't say it!" She reached Cary's side and seized his arm.

Just then, Earl Gunder staggered up to join the fray. He had started the evening with the express purpose of finding out what happened when you mixed Tom Collinses and whisky sours, with a few beers thrown in for good measure. He could see two brides and several grooms and Robin floating around in a mist. He did not know what it was all about but had decided that some one had done something mean to Robin. Must be that confounded Cary Craig. He swung wildly at Cary. Cary promptly retaliated by knocking him down. The crowd came surging up. There were yells of "Fight! Fight!" Tables were overturned. Hubbub reigned.

fought their way to Robin's side and were firing questions at her. Cary, stern and white-faced, quickly brushed them aside and took hold of Robin's arm. "Come, honey," he said gently. "I'll take you home."

Robin, still weeping, let him guide her toward the door. He had to push his way through the crowd, which was gongling at Robin. Lyriss, now silent, stared after them, her eyes narrowed, her lips tightly compressed. So this was the end of the wedding she had planned so carefully! With Cary almost in her grasp, that husky Robin Godine had come butting in, break up the wedding, and snatch him away from her!

But she'd get even! And she'd start right now!

SHE turned swiftly to the reporters, who seemed to be debating whether to dash after Robin or to try to get their story here.

"Here, boys! I'll give you the dope!" she said loudly. "You all know what a rotter Robin Godine is. She—"

She got no further, for at this instant, Bettina stepped up and deliberately cut in.

"Hello, fellow sufferers," she said to the newspaper men. "You know me—Bettina Bradley, society reporter for the Observer. I'll give you the low-down. I'm a friend of Miss Godine's and was in her party tonight."

She knew these men must get some sort of story, and she intended to give them one that would avoid discredit to Robin as much as possible. Certainly, she wasn't going to let them listen to the venomous Lyriss Moline!

"Come over here to the corner table," she said.

Lyriss, furious at being interrupted, started to follow, but Bettina said firmly, "Sorry, but this is a press conference. You'll have to read it in the paper."

Jed appeared just then and took Lyriss by the arm.

"Come back to the office," he said soothingly. "This has got you all excited. Besides, that fellow you hired for the minister is waiting, and he's almost as upset as you are."

Lyriss gave a shrug of exasperation, and allowed Jed to lead her away.

AS THEY entered the office, the Reverend Guernsey rose and, shaking his head in reproach, began expressing his shocked feelings.

"A dreadful scene, Miss Moline! You see what has come of your wish to make a public spectacle of a wedding. A public spectacle, indeed! You will remember that I warned you. If you had only followed my advice and—"

"Shut up!" Lyriss shrieked. She seized her purse, lying on a table, drew out some bills, and thrust them at the minister. "Here! Take your money and get out!"

"But, my dear young lady—"

"Get out, I say! Get out!"

"Perhaps you'd better go," Jed interposed uneasily. "She's kind of hysterical."

The minister was only too glad to go. He departed without another word.

Lyriss grabbed Jed and gave him a push.

"You go, too! I don't want to see anybody! I—I—" She burst into tears.

Jed regarded her in dismay. "Lyriss child. . . ." he began.

But Lyriss shoved him out of the room, and slammed the door.

She wanted to throw things! She wanted to smash everything in sight! But she didn't. Instead she wiped away her tears, leaned against the door and stood very still, her hands clenched, her eyes gleaming with bitter determination.

Somehow, some way, she would make Robin Godine pay for her interference—and pay dearly!

Placerville Named By Postmaster

ed arrived in Hangtown in 1859 and became the first postmaster in the community. There were a number of other "Hangtowns" served by the postoffice department and great confusion was being experienced in delivering the right mail to the right community, and so the then postmaster general asked Postmaster Nugent to suggest a new name for the community.

At that time some of the largest placer mines in the country were being operated in or near "Hangtown" and from this, Postmaster Nugent suggested Placerville as an appropriate name. The suggestion was accepted.

T. C. Nugent was superintendent of the city water works for thirty-five years and was assistant superintendent of the El Dorado Deep Gravel and Mining Company under whose direction the canal tapping the American River near Silver Fork resort and bringing water to Placerville, was established.

Mrs. T. C. Nugent was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Rockwell, who were El Dorado County pioneers of 1852. The elder Mr. Nugent passed away at Berkeley in 1908 and his widow, Mrs. Juliet R. Nugent, passed away in 1911.

Auto-Oddities

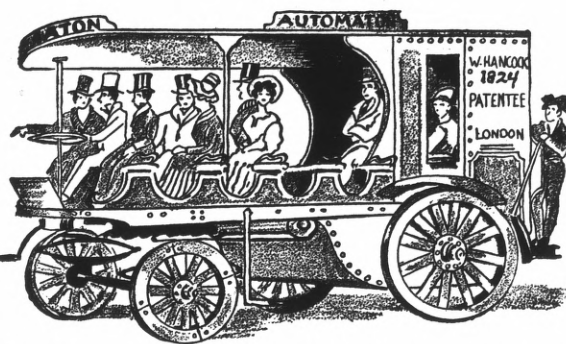

By the MOBILGAS Reporter

HOW'D YOU LIKE TO DEPEND on two big bags, like these, to keep your car going across the country? That's what they did in England, back in 1824.

The steam bags, alternately filled and expelled, were the means by which Walter Hancock, inventor, kept in operation his passenger conveyance illustrated below.

There were no cylinders and no pistons.

The "Automaton" was a fairly dependable car, for those days, because during its life it ran 4,200 miles and carried almost 13,000 passengers on many successful trips. No doubt it inspired the invention of the automobile about half a century later.

RUSSIANS REPORT 2,000 SLAIN IN DEFEAT OF ONE OF HITLER'S PICKED REGIMENTS IN BATTLE NEAR SMOLENSK

MOSCOW, (UP)—Russian troops have wiped out one of Adolf Hitler's own regiments of picked bodyguard troops, killing more than 2,000 officers and men and taking several hundred—nearly all—of the survivors, a war communique said today.

The victory was won on the bitterly contested Smolensk sector of the Moscow front, where for two weeks the Germans had driven vainly into the Russian lines and where the Russians themselves were now counter-attacking heavily and it was asserted, with great success.

It was the "Great Germany" regiment formed by Hitler in 1940 of picked men of Berlin storm troops who had been guarding the most important government and Nazi party buildings, that the Russians smashed, the communique said. The storm troops had been formed into a motorized regiment.

The Russian troops, drawn from the 60 races which make up the Soviet union, won their victory over a unit of Hitler's ideal "Aryans," selected as typical German Nordics racially undefiled by admixture with "inferior" blood. Each man was required to be politically as well as racially pure, and to be of a standard height.

In their victory, the communique said, the Russians captured 11 field guns, 14 anti-tank guns, 12 heavy machine guns, 30 sub-machine guns, many trucks and quantities of ammunition, the communique asserted.

dropped thousands of leaflets on German lines calling on Nazi troops to desert and present the leaflets as passports to the Russian lines.

Several dozen German planes were said to have raided Moscow during the night but most of them were reported driven off before they reached the city.

German accounts of the fighting claimed that Leningrad is nearly encircled and may fall shortly.

Nazi quarters circulated rumors that a Panzer spearhead had pushed to the outskirts of Leningrad.

The only high command reference to operations anywhere near Leningrad was a claim that Russian soldiers in Estonia had been forced to retreat to the north. This action is probably 200 to 150 miles from Leningrad in a sector where German accounts several weeks ago had indicated the fighting was virtually over.

The high command also claimed further encirclements of Soviet troops east of Smolensk, continuance of advances in the Ukraine, and air raids on Moscow and the rail junction of Orel, 200 miles southwest of Moscow.

Jap Apology Is Offered

Minister, apologized to American Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew today for the bombing of the United States Gunboat Tutuila. He told him that new and urgent orders had been issued to all Japanese forces to do their utmost to avoid damaging American property.

In token of the seriousness with which it viewed the bombing of the little American gunboat by Japanese navy planes in a raid on Chungking, the Chinese capital, yesterday, the Japanese government clamped down a blanket ban on messages regarding the incident for many hours.

It was not until 12:30 p. m. today, after Ambassador Grew had protested vigorously to the foreign office three times, that the ban was lifted and American correspondents were permitted to send messages regarding the bombing.

A telephone call between the United Press Tokyo and New York bureaus was arranged by the Japanese Foreign office at the request of the American embassy, but only on the understanding that no controversial news would be transmitted.

In addition to protesting the news ban, Ambassador Grew cabled to the state department at Washington reporting it and asking it to issue a statement there to insure distribution free of any censorship.

C. C. Herbert, forest road superintendent, left Thursday to spend a day or so in Desolation Valley in the Mosquito Pass area.

FRUIT HARVEST WORK BEGINS

sociation started work on the new crop Tuesday, handling some pears and plums. According to A. A. Brock, manager for the association which handles the great bulk of the county crop, it will be a week or ten days before the harvest begins to swing into full peration.

Although recent prices for some grades are not quite so strong as they were during the latter part of last season, Mr. Brock views the general outlook as better than in several years.

F. M. Small, of the F. M. Small Company was here Tuesday from Sacramento and following conferences with Walter Leavitt, local manager, reported that the company's local packing shed will start work for the season Monday or Tuesday of the coming week.

It was indicated that the start will be with a skeleton crew, which will be increased as the season advances.

Jack Rhodes, manager for Simon & French, indicated that packing will start about August 10.

The harvest season this year is ten days to two weeks later than usual in getting started, a circumstance which is attributed to the prolonged cool weather of the early growing season. However, the fruit is reported as well-shaped and in excellent condition to meet the grade tests in the markets to which it may be consigned.

USO CAMPAIGN IN COUNTY SEEKS QUOTA OF $1,335

Members of the United Service Organizations council for El Dorado County are continuing their campaign under the guidance of Mrs. Maybelle Timm, as chairman, to raise a quota of $1,335 assigned to this county.

The campaign is a part of a drive now nearing conclusion throughout the country to provide a fund to assist in the administration of service work and providing recreational centers in the military and naval training centers of the country.

The USO represents several organizations engaged in the so-called morale building activities for the men in camp.

Viola Self, found guilty on charges of disturbing the peace, was sentenced in city court Thursday morning to pay a fine of $30, in lieu of which she went to jail to serve fifteen days.

$77,000 SPORTS ARENA INCLUDED IN CURRENT BUILDING PROGRAM AT CAMP SAN LUIS OBISPO; 1,128 IN BUILDING CREW

CAMP SAN LUIS OBISPO—(Special)—Scores of buildings going up in the tent areas at camp here are primarily for soldier welfare and recreation, according to Major D. P. Lane, constructing quartermaster.

Although many workmen of the crew of 1,128 employed by the L. E. Dixon Co., of Los Angeles, contractors, are at work building the $2,500,000 Salinas river dam and pipe line, the interest of troops is centered on the frame structures rising in camp.

Among the buildings under construction:

A $77,000 sports arena. It will seat 2,750 for basketball, 3,750 for wrestling.

143 company day rooms for soldier recreation. Several are already completed and are being furnished out of company funds.

A $42,000 hospital recreation building, one new hospital administration building, one new hospital barracks building and enlargement of one barracks building.

Ten officers' day rooms.

Nine chapels. Church spires are now being framed on several of the buildings.

Officers club. It will be similar to the Enlisted Men's Service Club, except for the elimination of cafeteria and administration office wings.

In addition to these projects, according to Major Lane, construction crews are going ahead with construction of access roads to the firing ranges; "hard standing" for motor vehicles some 131,900 square yards of hard surfacing for motor pool and gun park areas; storage bays for cars and trucks; fencing around certain areas; and a 20-ton ice storage dock.

Particular interest is centering on the nine chapels and the hospital recreation building, which will be among the first of these types to be completed on the Pacific Coast.

The hospital recreation building will provide an auditorium with a seating capacity of 275, for entertainment of ambulatory patients in the station hospital. A stage and dressing room on each side, a screen for motion pictures, and other facilities for entertainment will be provided.

Mrs. Mildred K. Moore, assistant Red Cross Field Director, will be in charge of the building, and shows and concerts from the camp and neighboring communities will be staged there, as well as shows to be put on by hospital patients themselves.

The building will also provide eight guest rooms for the parents of soldiers seriously ill in the hospital.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Hitler's conscienceless perfidy in his dealings with other nations has been the subject of almost as much comment during the recent weeks as the blitzkrieg campaigns of his armored legions.

Under the devastating impact of totalitarian materialism, which laughs at morality and honor, covenants between nations and treaties of friendship have less value than at any other period in world history. No longer are they merely scraps of paper; they have become a form of diplomatic ambush—a trap for the unwary!

Hitler's invasion of Russia was probably the most spectacular example of the double-cross between nations in our time. Stalin's code, however, is little better than Hitler's, if past performance may be taken as a criterion, and the American public is still undecided as to which is the most unscrupulous gangster. But before Hitler turned against his Soviet ally, he had violated his non-aggression pacts with Poland, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Yugoslavia.

As a consequence, editorial writers have poured forth millions of words in denunciation of this modern Machiavelli, whose swastika has become the mark of bad faith and the emblem of treachery.

This writer has no quarrel with that appraisal of Hitler; it is the correct appraisal. His ethics are no better than those of Al Capone—and his methods are much the same.

But because we consider Hitler unspeakable—and an international outlaw, who deserves to be stood up before a firing squad—we have need to consider our own moral code; we have desperate need to make sure that we are men of our word—that our own way of life has not been tarnished and that we still believe in such simple virtues as honor and honesty.

When a man in the business world breaks his word or cuts a few corners to make a quick profit—even though he may laugh it off as just Yankee shrewdness—that isn't so different, after all, from Hitler's act in doubling his late ally, Stalin. The business man, of course, wouldn't commit murder to win his point; in that he differs from the German dictator, but it is only a question of degree.

When a member of the legislature goes back on his pledged word, or sells out his constituents to gain some selfish advantage, that isn't so different, after all, from tearing up treaties between nations. Ethically, it's the same thing.

When a labor union signs a wage-and-hour agreement with an employer for a fixed period of time and then declares a strike, in open violation of that agreement—that isn't so different, either, from what Hitler is doing. It is a breach of good faith which undermines the very system we live by.

This writer is not a cynic where the legislature is concerned. Actually, there are many fine, able, loyal men in the state legislature, who render splendid service at considerable personal sacrifice. But during the legislative session just ended there were also examples of duplicity which were a shocking revelation of a weakening of moral fiber that is dangerous to this state and this nation.

There is no cause for cynicism either where business is concerned. For every crooked business man, who sneaks trick paragraphs into his contracts, or breaks his word, there are a dozen others who still pride themselves on the fact that their word is their bond.

In the case of labor unions, there have been so many violations of contracts and agreements in recent years that a large section of the public undoubtedly has grown cynical—feeling that a contract with laborism's any better than one with Hitler. But that condition, we believe, has been brought about by crooked labor bosses, not by rank and file union men, although it is a condition which only the members of labor can correct.

As individuals, we all need to take a sharp look at ourselves—and determine whether we have been affected, or infected, by the Hitlerian philosophy. Certainly we can't trust Hitler; on that we are agreed. But ported that entries are being received in increasing number and urged upon prospective exhibitors a close study of the premium list. It was again noted that exhibitors will assist the fair board in completing its plans if they will file their entries at the earliest possible date.

The lay-out of the five large exhibit tents that house the principal exhibits of the fair has been completed and the first tent to greet the visitors upon entering the fair gates will be the Hall of Flowers. This will be eighty feet long and 48 feet deep.

Behind the Hall of Flowers and ranged three abreast will be, on the left, the Hall of Lumber, sixty by one hundred feet; in the middle, the Fruit Pavilion, measuring forty by eighty feet; and on the right, the Women's Pavilion, measuring sixty by one hundred feet.

Behind these will be the Agricultural Pavilion, two hundred twenty feet long and sixty feet wide.

The platting of the various exhibit tents is under way.

can we trust each other? The answer to that question may well determine whether we survive as a free people; it may determine the fate of our democracy.
